Theſe two Epiftles he writeth to confirme them in the Apoſtles doctrine, and warneth them of ſcorners that ſhal come, and denie Domes-day. 5. Whoſe vaine argument he anſwereth, and giueth the reaſon of God's fo long patience, 10. exhorting to al holines of life in reſpect of that terrible day: 16. Finally giuing warning of ſuch as miſinterpret S. Paules Epiftles & the other Scriptures, and that we muſt not for any thing fal from the true faith.

This loe the ſecond epiftle I write to you, my Deareſt, in which I ſtirre vp by admonition your ſincere mind: ² that you may be mindful of thoſe words which I told you before from the holy Prophets, and of your Apoſtles, of the precepts of our Lord and Sauour. ³ Knowing this firſt, that in the laſt daies ſhal come mockers in deceit, walking according to their owne cōcupiſcēces, ⁴ ſaying, Where is his promiſe or his cōming? For ſince the time that the Fathers ſlept, al things doe ſo perfeuere frō the beginning of creature. ⁵ For they are wilfully ignorant of this, that the Heauens were before, and the earth, out of water, and through water, confiſting by the word of God: ⁶ by the which, that world then, being ouerflowed with water perished. ⁷ But the Heauens which now are, and the earth, are by the ſame word kept in ſtore, referued to fire vnto the day of iudgement and of the perdition of the impious men. ⁸ But this one thing be not ignorant of, my Deareſt, that one day with our Lord is as a thouſand yeares, & a thouſand yeares as one day. ⁹ Our Lord flacketh not his promiſe, as ſome doe eſteeme it: but he doth patiently for you, not willing that any periſh, but that al returne to penance. ¹⁰ And the day of our Lord ſhal come as a theefe, in the which the Heauens ſhal paſſe with great violence, but the elements ſhal be reſolued with heat, and the earth and the workes which are in it, ſhal be burnt.

¹¹ Therefore whereas al theſe things are to be diffolued, what manner of men ought you to be in holy cōuerſations and godlineſſes, ¹² expecting and haſting vnto the coming of the day of our Lord, by which the Heauens burning ſhal be reſolued, and the elements ſhal melt with the heat of fire? ¹³ But we expect new Heauens and a new earth according to his promiſes, in which iuſtice inhabiteth.

Ro. 2, 4.

¹⁴ For the which cauſe, my Deareſt, expecting theſe things, labour earneſtly to be found immaculate and vnſpotted to him in peace: ¹⁵ and the longanimitie of our Lord, doe ye account ſaluation, as alſo our moſt deare Brother Paul according to the wiſdom giuen him hath written to you: ¹⁶ as alſo in al epiſtles ſpeaking in them of theſe things; in the which are ſcertaine things hard to be vnderſtood, which the vnlearned and vnſtable depraue, as alſo the reſt of the Scriptures, to their owne perdition. ¹⁷ You therefore, Brethren, fore-knowing, take heed left led aſide by the error of the vnwife you fal away from your owne ſtedfaſtneſs. ¹⁸ But grow in grace and in knowledge of our Lord and Sauour IESVS Chriſt. To him be glorie both now and vnto the day of eternitie. Amen.

ANNOTATIONS

¹⁶ Certaine things hard.) This is a plaine text to conuince the Proteſtants, who (as al heretikes lightly doe and did from the beginning) ſay the Scriptures be eaſie to vnderſtand, and therefore may be not only read ſafely, but alſo expounded boldly of al the people, as wel vnlearned as learned: and confequently euery one by himſelf and his priuate ſpirit, without reſpect of the expoſitions of the learned Fathers, or expectation of the Churches, their Paſtours and Prelates iudgement, may determine and make choice of ſuch ſenſe as himſelf liketh or thinketh agreeable. For this is partly their ſaying, partly the neceſſarie ſequel of their fooliſh opinion, which admitteth nothing but the bare Scriptures. And Luther ſaid that the Scriptures were more plaine then al the Fathers commentaries: and ſo al to be ſuperfluous but the Bible. Prefat. aſſert. art. damnat.

The heretical proud ſpirit of priuate interpretation of Scriptures.

The Scriptures be hard, namely S. Pauls epiſtles, ſpecially where he ſpeaketh of iuſtification by faith.

their Pastours and spiritual Rulers help, to guide themfelues in al matters of doctrine and doubts in religion: the holy Apofstle here telleth and fore-warneth the faithful, that the Scriptures be ful of difficultie, and fpecially S. Paules epiftles of al other parts of holy writ, and that ignorant men and vnftable or phantaftical fellowes puffed to and fro with euery blaft of doctrine and herefie, abufe, peruert, and mifconfter them to their owne damnation. And S. Auguftin faith, that the fpecial difficultie in S. Paules epiftles, which ignorant and euil men doe fo peruert, and which S. Peter meaneth, is his hard fpeech and much commendation of that faith which he faith doth iuftifie. Which the ignorant euen from the Apoftles time, and much more now, haue and doe fo mifconfter, as though he had meant that only faith without good workes could iuftifie or faue a man. Againft which wicked collection and abufe of S. Paules words, the faid Father faith al thefe Canonical or Catholike epiftles were writtē.

But the Heretikes here to shift of the matter, and to creep out after their fashion, anfwer, that S. Peter faith not, S. Paules epiftles be hard, but that many things in them are hard. Which may be to the Catholikes an example of their fophiftical euafions from the euidence of God's word. As though it were not alone to fay, Such an Authour or Writer is hard: and, There be many things in that Writer hard to be vnderftood. For, whether it be that the argument and matter be high and paff vulgar capacitie, as that of predeftination, reprobatiō, vocatiō of the Gentils, & iuftifying faith: or whether his māner of ftyle and writing be obfcure: al proue that his epiftles be hard and other Scriptures alfo: becaufe S. Peter here affirmeth that by reafon of the difficulties in them, whether in the ftyle, or in the depth of the matter, the ignorant and vnftable (fuch as Heretikes be) doe peruert his writings, as alfo other Scriptures, to theyr owne damnation. Whereby it is plaine that it is a very dangerous thing for fuch as be ignorant, or for wild witted fellowes, to read the Scriptures. For fuch conditioned men be they that become Heretikes, and through ignorance, pride, & priuate phantafie, meeting with hard places of S. Paules epiftles or other Scriptures, breed Herefies.

And that not only the things treated of in the holy Scriptures, but alfo that the very manner of writing and enditing thereof, is high and hard, and purpofely by God's prouidence oppointed to be written in fuch fort, fee S. Auguftin li. 2. de doct. Chrif. c. 6. & ep. 119. S. Ambrofe ep. 34. in principio. S. Luc. 24. v. 45.

How can I vnderftand without an interpreter? The Apoftles, til Chrift opened their fenfe to vnderftand the Scriptures, could not vnderftand them. The holy Doctours by continual ftudie, watching, and praying, had much a-doe to vnderftand them: that great Clerke S. Auguftin confeffing in the forefaid epiftle 119. c. 21. that there were many moe things that he vnderftood not, then that he vnderftood. The Heretikes fay the Fathers did commonly erre, and how could fuch great wife learned men be deceiued in reading and expounding the Scriptures, if they were not hard? And if they were hard to thẽ, how are they eafie to thefe new Maifters the Heretikes? Finally, why doe they write fo many new gloffes, fcholies, commentaries, as a cart can not carrie? Why doe Luther, Zuinglius, Caluin, and their Companions agree no better vpon the interpretation of the Scriptures, if they be not hard? Whereat ftumbled al the old heretikes & the new, Arius, Macedonius, Vigilantius, Neftorius, Berengarius, Wicleffe, Proteftants, Puritanes, Anabaptifts, and the reft, but at the hardnes of the Scriptures? They be hard then to vnderftand, and Heretikes peruert them to their owne damnation.
