

Chapter 25

Baldad endeuoreth againe to terrifie Iob, with Gods iudgement, from appealing therto, and from auouching his owne innocencie.

The eight conflict.

But Baldad the Suhite anfwering, fayd: ² Power and terrour is with him, that maketh concord in his high ones. ³ Is there anie number of his fouldiars? and vpon whom shal not his light arife? ⁴ ^{a)} Can man be iuftified compared with God, or the borne of a woman appeare cleane? ⁵ Behold the moone alfo doth not fhine, and the ftarres are not cleane in his fight. ⁶ How much more man rottennes, & the fonne of man a worme?

^a Iob anfwered before ch. 9. yet blind and obtinate difputers ftill repete the fame obiections.
