the fire on the altar ^a)shal alwaies burne, which the priest shal nourish, putting wood vnderneath, in the morning euerie day, and laying on the holocaust, therupon shal burne the fatte of the pacifiques. ¹³ This fire is continual which shal neuer faile on the altar. ¹⁴ This is the Law of the sacrifice and libamentes, which the children of Aaron shal offer before the Lord, and before the altar. ¹⁵ The priest shal take vp a handful of the floure, that is tempered with oyle, and al the frankincense, that is put vpon the floure: and he shal burne it on the altar for a moniment of moft fweete odour to the Lord: ¹⁶ and the part of the floure that is left, shal Aaron eate with his sonnes, without leauen: and he shal eate it in the Holie place of the court of the tabernacle. ¹⁷ And therefore it shal not be leauened, because part therof is offered for the burnt sacrifice of the Lord. It shal be moft Holie, as that for sinne, and for offence. ¹⁸ The males onlie of Aarons stocke shal eate it. ¹⁹ It shal be an ordinance and euerlasting in your generations of the sacrifices of the Lord. Euerie one that toucheth them, shal be sanctified. ²⁰ And our Lord spake to Moyse, saying: ²¹ This is the oblation of Aaron, and of his sonnes, which they must offer to the Lord, in the day of their vnction. The tenth part of an ephi of floure shal they offer in a sacrifice for euer, halfe therof in the morning, and halfe therof at euen: ²² which being tempered with oile shal be fried in a frying panne. ²³ And the priest that by right succeedeth his father, shal offer it hote, for a moft fweete odour to the Lord, and it shal wholly be burnt on the altar. ²⁴ For euerie sacrifice of the priest shal be consumed with fire, neither shal anie man eate therof. ²⁵ And our Lord spake to Moyse, saying: ²⁶ Speake to Aaron and his sonnes: This is the law of the holte for sinne. ^a This fire was first sent miraculously from God. (infra. c. 9. v. 24.) and according to this commandment, was perpetually conferred: from which all fire was to be taken that was used in the tabernacle. S. Aug. q. 31. & Theod. q. 9. in Leviticum. Mytically it signified, that the fire of charitie being first kindled in mans hart by Gods grace, must be continually nourished and kept burning, from which all other good workes are deriued.

place where the holocaust is offered, shal it be immolated before our Lord. It is Holie of holies. ²⁷ The priest that doth offer it, shal eat it in a holie place, in the courte of the tabernacle. ²⁸ Whatfoeuer shal touch ^a)the flesh therof, shal be sanctified. If of the blood therof a garment be sprinkled, it shal be washed in a holie place. ²⁹ And the earthen veffel, wherin it was foddin, shal be broken, but if the veffel be of braffe, it shal be scoured, and washed with water. ³⁰ Euerie male of the priestlie race shal eat of the flesh therof, becaufe it is Holie of holies. ³¹ For the hofte that is flaine for sinne, whose blood is caried into the tabernacle of teftimonie to make expiation in the Sanctuarie, shal not be eaten, but shal be burnt with fire.
