

Chapter 5

Yong Tobias feeking a guide for his iourney, Raphael the Angel in shape of a man presenteth himself, and vndertaketh this office. 23. The mother lamenteth the abfence, and danger of her fonne.

The fecond part.
The iourney and affayres of yong Tobias affited by the Angel Raphael.

Then Tobias answered his father, and fayd: I wil doe al things, father, whatfoeuer thou haft commanded me. ² But how I shal require this money, I can not tel, he knoweth not me, and I know not him: what token shal I geue him? Yea neither the way which leadeth thither, did I euer know. ³ Then his father answered him, and fayd: I haue the bil of his hand with me, which when thou shalt shew him he wil forthwith reftore it. ⁴ But goe now, and feeke thee out fome faythful man, that may goe with thee being fure of his hyre: that thou mayft receiue it, whiles I yet liue. ⁵ Then Tobias going forth, found a ^agoodlie yongman, ftanding girded, and as it were readie to walke. ⁶ And not knowing that it was an Angel of God, he faluted him, and fayd: From whence haue we thee, good yongman? ⁷ But he answered: Of the children of Ifrael. And Tobias fayd to him: Knoweft thou the way, that leadeth vnto the countrie of the Medes? ⁸ To whom he answered: I know it: and al the wayes therof I haue often walked, and I haue taried with Gabelus our brother, who abydeth in Rages a citie of the Medes, which is fituate in the Mount Ecbatannis. ⁹ To whom Tobias fayd: Stay for me I befeech thee, til I tel thefe fame things to my father. ¹⁰ Then Tobias going in told al thefe things to his father. Whereupon his father marueiling, requested that he would come in vnto him. ¹¹ Going in therfore he faluted him, and fayd: Ioy be to thee alwaies. ¹² And Tobias fayd: What maner of ioy fhall be to me, which fitte in darkenes, and fee not the light of heauen? ¹³ To whom the yong man fayd: Be of good cheere, it is very neere that thou mayft be cured of God. ¹⁴ Tobias therefore fayd to him: Canst thou bring my fonne to Gabelus into Rages a citie of the Medes? and when thou shalt returne, I wil pay thee thy hyre. ¹⁵ And the Angel fayd to him: I wil conduct him, & bring him to thee againe. ¹⁶ To whom Tobias answered: I pray thee, tel me, of what houle, or what tribe art thou? ¹⁷ To whom ^aRaphael the Angel fayd: Seekest thou the kinred of an hyred feruant, or an hyred feruant himfelfe, that may goe with thy fonne? ¹⁸ But left perhaps I make thee careful, I am Azarias the sonne of Ananias the great. ¹⁹ And Tobias answered: Thou art of a great kinred. But I pray thee be not angrie that I would know thy kinred. ²⁰ And the Angel fayd to him: I wil lead thy fonne safe, and bring him to thee agayne safe. ²¹ And Tobias answering, fayd: Wel may you walke, and God be in your iourney, and his Angel accompanie you. ²² Then al things being readie, that were to be caried in the way, Tobias bid his father and his mother, fare wel, and they walked both together. ²³ And when they were departed, his mother began to weepe, & to fay: Thou haft taken the staffe of our old age, and sent him away from vs. ²⁴ I would the money had neuer bene, for the which thou haft sent him. ²⁵ For our pouertie sufficed vs, that we might account this thing riches, that we say our fonne. ²⁶ And Tobias fayd to her: Weepe not, our fonne shal come thither safe, and shal returne safe to vs, and thyne eies shal see him. ²⁷ For I beleue that ^bthe good Angel of God doth accompanie him, & doth wel difpofe al things, that are done about him, fo that he shal returne to vs with ioy. ²⁸ At this voyce his mother left weeping, and held her peace.
